COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course provides an overview of immigration law and practice. The course surveys the legal, historical, and political considerations that shape U.S. immigration law. It is also a practical course to assist the student in understanding both the substantive and procedural aspects of practicing in this dynamic area of law. The course will involve analysis of immigration events that frequently appear in the news. As this course is only a semester long, the student will get the basics of many areas of immigration including:

- History of immigration law and constitutional basis for regulating immigration;
- Contours of the immigration bureaucracy and roles of the various federal agencies involved in immigration decisions;
- Admission of immigrant and non-immigrants into the U.S, understanding the common visas in each category and procedure for applications;
- Deportation/Removal procedure and law;
- Grounds of Inadmissibility vs. Grounds of Removal/Deportability;
- Waivers of Inadmissibility and Relief from Removal;
- Asylum and refugee law and procedure, and other Humanitarian Forms of Immigration Relief;
- Citizenship and Naturalization, and Expatriation;
- Immigration Federalism and the Role of Executive Action/Discretion in the Immigration System.

A significant portion of the course focuses on the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1952 (“INA”), as amended by numerous laws and their implementing regulations. While international law and comparisons to immigration law and policy of other countries may be referenced, this class focuses primarily on immigration law in the U.S. In light of the heightened focus on immigration in the national debate, the course will provide a space for dialogue about immigration policy in the news and address changes in the law and policy proposals as they occur, to the extent possible.

LEARNING GOALS

1 These learning goals arise out of Western State College of Law’s Programmatic Learning Outcomes, and Argosy University’s Institutional Learning Outcomes, which are reproduced here: Western State College of Law Programmatic Learning Outcomes: (1) Doctrinal Knowledge (Students will demonstrate knowledge of substantive and procedural law in the core curriculum subjects, including Contracts, Criminal Law, Criminal Procedure, Torts, Real Property, Business Association, Evidence, Civil Procedures, Constitutional Law, Estates, Community Property, Remedies, and Professional Responsibility); (2) Practice Skills (Students will demonstrate the development of other law practice skills. Each student’s chosen outcomes within this category will be varied based on the student’s particular interests, coursework and work experiences. They may include, but are not limited to, the following topics: oral presentation and advocacy; interviewing; counseling; client service and business development; negotiations, mediation, arbitration, or other alternate dispute resolution methods; advanced legal research and writing (excluding purely academic papers and the first four units earned in introductory first-year legal research and writing class); applied legal writing such as drafting contracts, pleadings, other legal instruments; law practice management or the use of technology in law practice; cultural competency;
After completion of this course, you should be able to competently:

1. Analyze the federal immigration statute, regulations, case law and other legal authorities relevant to immigration law.
2. Apply the relevant statutes, standards, principles, and rules when presented in hypothetical and unfamiliar fact patterns.
3. Understand, and think critically about, the principles and policies behind our current and past system of immigration law.
4. Communicate, both orally and in writing, appropriate legal and factual arguments in support of each side of controversies involving commonly encountered issues in immigration law.
5. Communicate, both orally and in writing, with immigrant clients (including those with limited formal education) regarding prospective eligibility for immigration relief and matters related to effective case preparation.

LEXIS ONLINE MATERIALS

I will post class-related material and announcements through the online program administered by Lexis Nexis. Additional information will be provided during the first class.
COURSE MATERIALS

The following course materials are required:

   The sixth edition of the Legomsky textbook was used during the Spring 2018 Immigration Law course. The seventh edition includes substantial updates, thus students should not attempt to use the sixth edition this semester.

2) Immigration & Nationality Act + Regulations. You have two options:

   With regard to the INA + regulations (# 2), either option will suffice for the course (and students will not gain any advantage on open book testing by either option). The AILA INA/CFR combo is considerably more expensive than the Aleinikoff text, which includes both INA and regulations. As a practitioner, I have used both the Aleinikoff and AILA texts and greatly prefer the AILA version for daily use.

   The AILA regulations publication includes the entire Title 8 C.F.R., as well as a second volume comprised of Titles 6 and various others. Unfortunately, AILA only sells the regulations as a two-volume combo. We will reference Title 8, but we will rarely, if ever, reference the other regulation titles during the course. Please note that a considerable student discount is available for both the AILA INA ($65) & regulations ($105) books. If you plan to purchase the AILA publication(s), be sure to obtain the student code purchase form from me or Sarah Eggleston.

   The assigned readings are often significant and will keep you sufficiently busy. I recommend that you read the assigned material, including statutory references, multiple times before turning elsewhere. If you want to read supplementary materials, the most thorough reference work for immigration practice is the multi-volume treatise by Charles Gordon, Stanley Mailman, & Stephen Yale-Loehr, Immigration Law and Procedure (Matthew Bender), which is available in the Immigration Clinic library. (This treatise appears on several “essential materials” lists). By far the most common practice-based book is the Immigration Law Sourcebook by Ira Kurzban, which is also in the Immigration Clinic library. For current immigration information, an online resource is Bender’s Immigration Bulletin (available at www.bibdaily.com).
GRADING AND LIST OF ASSIGNMENTS

Immigration Law is an elective course. If you are a candidate for the Immigration Law Certificate, then Immigration Law is a required course in order to obtain the Certificate. Immigration Law also satisfies the elective component of the Criminal Law Practice Certificate. The course is excellent preparation for taking the Immigration Clinic (which is a 5-credit course in which students represent real-life clients in immigration matters, and involves an application process). Please note that, Immigration Law does not satisfy the Upper Level Writing Requirement.

The course will be graded according to the following evaluation criteria:

- Class Preparation, Participation and Teamwork (25% of grade): Like the rest of the faculty, I value in-class contributions and professionalism. Assigned reading will vary from week to week and may be substantial on occasion. Nonetheless, I expect you to come to class prepared. I aim for all classes to include substantial dialogue about the assigned material and expect all students to participate in class discussion every week. We will also conduct several in-class exercises, including simulated client interviews, which will be factored into the class participation grading.

- Immigration News Briefing (5% of grade): Each student will receive a date to present a current immigration issue that has been discussed in the news. Beginning in week 2, class will begin with an “Immigration News Briefing”. The assigned student will give a summary of the news item, relating the information to relevant coursework or policy issues that have been discussed. The student will lead a short class discussion following the news briefing. Students are required to submit an electronic copy to their classmates in anticipation of their presentation on their assigned day. More information will be provided during Class 1.

- Naturalization Workshop: (5% of grade): I greatly value volunteerism. Students will apply client interviewing and legal analysis skills from the class by participating in a CARECEN-sponsored naturalization workshop. Date, time and location TBD.

- Topic Quizzes (15% of grade): I will administer periodic quizzes during the semester that may include multiple choice, short answer, and brief essay questions.

- Final Examination (50% of grade): The final examination will likely consist of a combination of multiple choice, short answer, and essays. It will likely be a three-hour exam in which you are able to bring the textbook, INA and regulations.

2 While I take attendance, it is always your own responsibility to keep track of your absences. Absences, if at all occurring, should be reserved for exceptional circumstances. If you have missed or will miss class, please review a classmate’s notes and the class Powerpoint slides and see me as soon as possible after the absence if you still have questions about the material. In accordance with the WSCL academic policy and as described in the Student Handbook, a student who misses more than four 1.5-hour class sessions will be withdrawn from class.
APPOINTMENTS AND OFFICE HOURS

I will hold office by appointment on Thursdays. You may schedule an appointment by contacting me directly at dsharp@carecen-la.org. I am happy to discuss the course, assignments, policy issues, and career opportunities.

DISABILITY SERVICES STATEMENT

Western State College of Law provides accommodations to qualified students with disabilities. The Disabilities Services Office assists qualified students with disabilities in acquiring reasonable and appropriate accommodations and in supporting equal access to services, programs, and activities at Western State College of Law.

To seek reasonable accommodations, a student must contact Senior Assistant Dean Donna Espinoza, Student Services Director and Disabilities Services Coordinator, whose office is in the Students Services Suite 119. Dean Espinoza’s phone number and email address are: (714) 459-1117; despinoza@wsulaw.edu. When seeking accommodations, a student should notify Dean Espinoza of her or his specific limitations and, if known, her or his specific requested accommodations. Students who seek accommodations will be asked to supply medical documentation of the need for accommodation. Classroom accommodations are not retroactive, but are effective only upon the student sharing approved accommodations with the instructor or professor. Therefore, students are encouraged to request accommodations as early as feasible with Dean Espinoza to allow for time to gather necessary documentation. If you have a concern or complaint in this regard, please notify Dean Espinoza; or please notify Dean Allen Easley at aeasley@wsulaw.edu or (714) 459-1168. Complaints will be handled in accordance with the College of Law’s “Policy against Discrimination and Harassment.”

SYLLABUS

I have provided the topics that I expect to cover for the semester, as well as readings to be covered throughout the semester. However, I will update the syllabus as we progress and assigned readings may change. Check in with me before getting more than a week ahead on the readings. It is difficult to anticipate how long it will take to discuss each topic and occasionally we may spend more time on a topic than initially anticipated. Please expect occasional adjustments to the syllabus throughout the semester.

Immigration law is governed primarily by one large, sprawling statute: the Immigration and Nationality Act, or INA. Familiarity with the INA is critical to success in this course, and in the practice of immigration law generally. Where I have assigned a section of the INA that contains subsections, you should read all of the subsections (e.g., if INA § 212(a) is assigned, then please read all of the subsections of 212(a)). The INA is a complicated statute, and it is difficult to read in isolation. You should therefore read the assigned sections of the INA when they are referenced in the casebook, even if I have not specifically assigned them.
The casebook contains a number of hypothetical fact patterns (“problems”), some of which will be discussed in class. I have designated specific problems for you to be prepared to discuss. Many of the problems will require you to engage in a detailed analysis of the statute and apply the principle or rule from the reading to a new, hypothetical fact pattern. It is very difficult to be prepared in class, or to have a sophisticated discussion of the problem, if you are working from memory or if your preparation was vague. Therefore, for each problem, I recommend that you bring to class a set of typewritten answers, along with a record of the sources you consulted to answer the problem.

You should expect to spend at least 6 hours each week outside of class on readings, exercises, note-taking, review, assignments and other class preparation. This is a rough estimate. You will likely find that some weeks you need to spend more (and possibly less) than the estimated amount of time. I appreciate that students have many demands on their time, including other classes, employment, and family. Given the breadth of the subject matter, however, significant reading time is necessary. The class involves substantive law from a practitioner’s perspective, as well as analysis of various constitutional and policy issues. Those who plan to practice immigration law may find this “big picture” perspective rewarding before delving into a career of casework. There is, however, no way to engage in this valuable exercise without a substantial time investment.

WEEK 1 January 17, 2019. Introduction; Constitutional Foundations

- Legomsky & Thronson (“L & T”): pp. 1-27, 107-146
  - NOTE: reading for week 2 is substantial. Students are encouraged to read ahead.
